How will the fluid in each container respond to the heating/cooling conditions?